

HOME » BUILDING AND CONSTRUCTION » IF I HAD A HAMMER

If I had a hammer

POSTED: Thursday, August 13, 2009 at 04:24 PM PT
BY: Dan Carter
Tags: Pacific Construction Services

Zeb Lazaro, above, with Pacific Construction Services, works on the entrance to one of the spaces in The Anvil Building, a two-story office building at the corner of Northeast Failing Street and Garfield Avenue in Northeast Portland. The second floor of the 9,000-square-foot, two-story structure will be the home of Anvil Media Inc., a Portland search-engine marketing agency. The exterior of the building features rough-hewn cedar siding, metal and glass. Ankrom Moisan Associated Architects is the designer of the building, which is being built by general contractor B&G Builders. Construction is scheduled to end in September.

< RFP: Architectural Services for Public Works Customer Service Center Federal stimulus needs to build some steam >

POST A COMMENT

Your name *

E-mail *

Website

SUBMIT

MOST READ

- Railroads could hold up high-speed trains
- Willamette River development risks rise
- Luxury resort scheduled to open in Newberg
- Newberg continues planning for 200-acre industrial area
- AGC fuming about exhaust rules

YOU'RE THE CEO, CMO, CFO

POPULAR TAGS

ABC ACE Academy AGC Ankrom Moisan Associated Architects Army Corps of Engineers bid results Build America Bonds Cardno WRG construction bidding DEQ Energy Star EPA federal stimulus gas tax general contractors Gerding Edlen Hoffman Construction Interface Engineering John Killin layoffs LEED Lents LRS Architects Meier & Frank Building ODOT Old Town Oregon Legislature Oregon OSHA Park Avenue West Pearl District pge park Project of the Day projects recession Siskiyou Square stimulus projects THA Architects Transportation TriMet Turner Construction Turtle Island Development unemployment Walsh Construction WES workforce development

